This research aims to determine the types and causes of gender inequality in the novel Jane Eyre. Researchers use the theory of types of gender inequality by Joseph Rowntree and the theory of the causes of gender inequality by Robert W. Kolb. The research method used by researchers is a qualitative descriptive method. The results of this research answer two main problems, namely that the author can identify the types of gender inequality which include five important points, namely fundamental inequality, special opportunity inequality, professional inequality, ownership inequality, and household inequality. Second, the author can find out the causes of gender inequality which include four important points, namely subordination of women, negative stereotypes against women, violence against women, and the large burden on women's work.
